CLASS OF 1908

Entered June 16, 1904; graduated Feb. 14, 1908.

Subsequent to the graduation of this class, an error was discovered in the published standing of Alexander L. James, its correction advancing him from No. 41 to No. 25, with a corresponding loss of one file in each of the intervening numbers, (see Memorandum Order, Headquarters United States Military Academy, April 27, 1909). In Volume V of this Register, the relative positions of Sward and Hayes were given incorrectly. These errors are now corrected.

Awarded

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.

"For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As representative of the Chemical Warfare Service at General Headquarters he rendered valuable services in the solution of many important problems relating to the offensive use of gas and also in planning more effective methods for the issue of equipment and for training in gas warfare. Later, as chief gas officer of the 1st Army, he was charged with the entire responsibility of the gas warfare in that army during the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. By great ability and untiring energy, his efforts resulted in the prevention of large numbers of casualties and fatalities from enemy gases as well as increasing the use of gas against the enemy, thereby contributing to the success of the American arms."

Service Medals: Victory Medal with four battle clasps.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS.

"For extraordinary heroism in action against hostile Moros on Patian Island, P. I., July 4, 1909. During the attack on the Moro stronghold he commanded with great gallantry and coolness a mountain-gun detachment. In the face of enemy fire, the mountain gun was dragged to and held by block and tackle within a few yards of the hostile position, from which place he directed a heavy fire on the enemy, and replaced his gunner when the latter was severely wounded. When the assault on the enemy's position took place and the gun commanded by Lieutenant Parrott could no longer be fired, he took command of the men in his immediate vicinity, gallantly leading them forward, and engaging the charging enemy in a hand-to-hand Combat."

Awarded

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.

"For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. In 1917, before instruction pamphlets were issued, Col. Whitley prepared combat drill formations, suitable for war strength companies armed with new weapons. As battalion commander during the operations near Chateau-Thierry, he rendered valuable service. Due to his initiative and personal leadership, 39 days of constant contact with the enemy failed to break the morale of his organization. After the armistice, as Chief of the Decorations Division, General Headquarters, American Expeditionary Forces, by his sound judgment, professional knowledge, and exceptional ability, this officer performed his manifold and responsible duties with the utmost efficiency. He has rendered services of material worth to the American Expeditionary Forces."

Decorations: Chevalier of Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre with palm of France; Cross of Chevalier St. Maurice and St. Lazarus of Italy; Cross of Commander of White Eagle of Serbia; Cross, Commander of Danilo I and Medal of bravery of Montenegro, Commander of the Order La Solidaridad of Panama.

Cited

"For gallantry in action near Flirey, France, Aug. 7-8, 1918, while temporarily in command of the 1st Battalion, 354th Infantry, 89th Division. His battalion subjected to concentrated and protracted enemy gas and high explosive shell fire Lieutenant-Colonel Shiverick with great coolness and with utter disregard for his own safety passed constantly among his own troops, calming them and encouraging them to hold fast in spite of the terrific enemy bombardment, thus enabling them to retain the advance post position which they had been ordered to hold under all circumstances and all costs. Severely gassed, he refused to be evacuated until assured that all the other wounded received every care. His bravery and utter forgetfulness of self inspired the men of his battalion to splendid endeavors."

Awarded

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.

"For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As an instructor at the Army General Staff College, American Expeditionary Forces, he displayed high professional attainments and unfailing energy, performing services of inestimable worth in connection with the instruction and training of officers for General Staff duty. He prepared the "Notebook for the General Staff Officer" and the "Provisional Staff Manual," and was mainly responsible for the "Handbook of Division and Brigade Commanders," all of which proved to be most valuable books. As adjutant of the 159th Infantry Brigade, 80th Division, during the St. Mihiel offensive, and later as a member of the interallied games committee he gave further proof of his sterling ability, sound judgment, and keen foresight. In all of these positions he rendered most conspicuous services to the Government."

Awarded

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS.

For extraordinary heroism in action near Buzancy, France, Nov. 3, 1918. In the face of terrific enemy artillery and machine-gun fire Lieutenant-Colonel Beere, accompanied by another officer, voluntarily made his way forward and beyond the advanced Infantry lines for a distance of several hundred yards. Upon reaching the advanced Infantry lines they separated, but first made plans so that the information obtained might be carried back by either officer. After a very thorough reconnaissance they located the enemy positions and strong points which were holding up the advance. They then successfully returned to our lines and communicated the information to the nearest artillery, which concentrated fire upon the critical points and silenced the enemy resistance, thereby permitting the Infantry to resume the advance.

Victory Medal with three battle clasps.

Awarded

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS.

"For extraordinary heroism in action June 28—July 3, 1919, while serving as assistant chief of staff, G-2, American Expeditionary Forces, Siberia. On July 2, 1919, after the capture, by American troops of Novitskaya, an American platoon detailed to clear hostile patrols from a commanding ridge was halted by enemy enfilading fire, seriously wounding the members of the patrol. Colonel Eichelberger, without regard to his own safety and armed with a rifle, voluntarily covered the withdrawal of the platoon. On June 28, at the imminent danger of his own life, he entered the partisan lines and effected the release of one American officer and three enlisted men in exchange for a Russian prisoner. On July 3 an American column being fired upon when debouching from a mountain pass, Colonel Eichelberger voluntarily assisted in establishing the firing line, prevented confusion, and, by his total disregard for his own safety, raised the morale of the American forces to a high pitch."

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.

"For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services, as assistant chief of staff, G-2, with the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia. He organized and directed the intelligence service of the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia in a most able manner and under most trying circumstances. By his keen foresight, discriminating judgment, and brilliant professional attainments, exercised through his efficiently established organization, he was able to keep his commanding general well and fully informed at all times. His tireless energy and his keen insight into local conditions gave him a masterful grasp of the situation, which contributed materially to the success of the forces in Siberia. He rendered most conspicuous services of inestimable value to the Government in a position of great responsibility."

Commendation for heroic conduct.

"For heroic conduct at Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, New Jersey, May 28, 1925. Major Miles, with utter disregard for personal safety, entered a burning building containing loaded bombs and explosives, and assisted in removing an injured civilian employee. Immediately after the rescue the building was completely demolished by the detonation of burning explosives. Major Miles' conduct at this time is deserving of commendation and reflects great credit upon himself and the Army of which he is a member."

Awarded

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS.

"For extraordinary heroism in action at Warfusse Abancourt, Somme, France, Mar. 27 to Apr. 3, 1918. Captain Jones, with utter disregard for his own personal safety, courageously led his men during this period, repeatedly passing from trench to trench encouraging his men, while under enemy machine-gun and rifle fire. On Mar. 30, 1918, when all other officers of his company became casualties he repeatedly exposed himself to enemy fire while going from the front line trench to the strong point, about 100 yards in front, in order to keep the machine guns in action, and directing the reconstruction of the trenches after the enemy bombardment had partially destroyed them. This splendid gallantry and leadership displayed by Captain Jones, and his utter disregard for his own personal safety, was a great inspiration to the men of his command."

Service Medal: Victory Medal with four battle clasps.

Awarded posthumously

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS.

"For extraordinary heroism in action in the Toul sector, France, May 26, 1918. The artillery of the 26th Division desiring its batteries to be adjusted upon objectives in front of the division, Captain Saunders volunteered to make the attempt although the weather was most unfavorable to flying. After flying two hours amid heavy anti-aircraft fire and having adjusted the fire of three batteries his plane was hit and disabled. Returning to his airdrome he secured another plane and returned to the enemy line to complete his mission. After another hour in the air he was again forced, on account of motor trouble, to return to the airdrome. Obtaining a third plane he again returned to the lines, the weather conditions forcing him to proceed for a considerable distance behind the enemy lines and at low altitude. Flying thus for an hour his plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire and badly damaged. With one control shot away and his propeller likewise injured, he still continued to adjust, always at low altitude and under constant enemy fire, until his mission was successfully accomplished. The heroic conduct of Captain Saunders served as a splendid example of soldierly devotion to duty to the men of his squadron."

Awarded five Silver Stars and cited "for gallantry in action near Missy au Bois, France, July 18-20, 1918. Captain Yuill repeatedly distinguished himself by his heroic action in organizing machine gun and rifle companies under the most trying circumstances and leading them in the attack against heavy fire from enemy guns. He was twice rendered unconscious from bursting shells, refused to be evacuated and led his units forward in the face of stubborn resistance"; "for gallantry in action near Berzy-le-Sec, France, July 21, 1918 and for his brilliant leadership"; "for gallantry in action near Exermont, France, Oct. 4, 1918. When the advance of the 2nd Battalion, 26th Infantry was held up by enemy machine gun fire, Captain Yuill gallantly advanced with one machine gun and silenced two opposing machine guns which permitted the advance of the battalion. Later in the same action, when isolated groups of enemy riflemen and machine gunners were holding up the advance of his battalion, Captain Yuill, under heavy enemy machine gun and artillery fire, with utter disregard of his safety, personally operated a machine gun that silenced the enemy machine gun nests, thereby enabling his battalion to continue the advance"; "for gallantry in action south of Hill 263, France, Oct. 9, 1918. After all the officers of the two rifle companies supporting his battalion had become casualties, Captain Yuill, under heavy enemy artillery fire and with utter disregard for his own safety reorganized those two companies and with the Machine Gun Company gallantly led them forward in the advance"; "for gallantry in action and devotion to duty during the operations of the Second Infantry Brigade in the Meuse Argonne Offensive, Nov. 5-8, 1918".

Authorized to wear the French Fourragere in the colors of the Croix de Guerre as an individual citation.

Awarded

SOLDIERS' MEDAL.

For heroism on July 11, 1926, during the explosions at the Lake Denmark Naval Ammunition Depot, near Dover, N. J., Captain Holmes, one of a part of eight men, entered the burning area at 6:30 a. m. to search for First Lieutenant George W. Bott, Jr., United States Army, who was known to have been in the powder factory at the time of the first explosions late the preceding afternoon. Throughout the search they were in close proximity to burning magazines and exposed to frequent explosions of large-caliber shells and small-arms ammunition. While there was still possibility of more serious detonations and at the risk of their lives they located the body of Lieutenant Bott and with great difficulty succeeded in removing it from the wreckage to a point outside the danger zone.
